A. Description of overall philosophy (200 word limit): The mission of the Department of Exceptional Student Services in the Algiers Charter School Association is to educate all students with exceptionalities and to meet their unique academic, social, emotional and physical needs in the least restrictive environment. Within the context of this mission, Exceptional Student Services ensures compliance with federal and state laws regarding the education of students with disabilities as well as those who are identified as Gifted and/or Talented. Towards this end, special education services and related and support services are available to meet the needs of all students under the leadership of the Executive Director of Exceptional Student Services. These services reflect implementation of procedures that are grounded in “Best Practices” research as found in the large body of validated special education research data. In addition, so that these students with special needs may be effectively identified, Exceptional Student Services complies with regulations that require a student suspected of being exceptional receive a comprehensive multidisciplinary evaluation conducted by pupil appraisal professionals certified by the State Department of Education. Through Pupil Appraisal’s adherence to specific regulations in the Pupil Appraisal Handbook, Bulletin 1508, these students are identified and provided a Free Appropriate Public Education.

9/T9 – 12	Within the co-teaching model, the student's special education teacher partners with a general education teacher to meet the instructional goals of students with and without disabilities in a general education class for an entire class period at a time. Responsibility for planning, delivering instruction, assessing, managing student behaviors and discipline is shared by both teachers. The focus at this level is on addressing graduation requirements, especially in relation to addressing End-of-Course testing. In addition, Transitional Goals are addressed within the context of the general curriculum. Furthermore, a paraprofessional may be present in the general education setting along with the Inclusion Teacher to provide additional support to the student as indicated on the student's IEP, for	The student's special education teacher provides support towards attainment of IEP goals and objectives at least in part through a Resource Center Model where general education instruction is augmented by a focus on specific skill mastery needed to earn Carnegie Units in the course and to pass the End-of-Course testing. For instance, the student's special education teacher may provide instruction in algebraic expressions to augment learning in an Algebra I class. The Resource Teacher garners lesson plans from the General Education Teacher and identifies areas in need of further support in collaboration with that teacher. A paraprofessional is also sometimes utilized within the context of the Resource setting to reinforce the maintenance of individual skills. Text-to-Speech technology,	Students receive instruction in Community-Based skills through programs that immerse the students in activities within the community enabling them to learn various employment skills so that they may be ready to enter the workforce upon graduation. Within the context of this community-based model, students also receive instruction in basic reading and mathematics skills that are necessary for them to remain in gainful employment. A paraprofessional is often utilized to assist the teacher with the instruction of skills according to the specific needs of the students. Some students, for instance, may require actual physical assistance to help enable them to complete a task, a technique known as Hand-Over-Hand.

Description of extended school year services:	Identification: Identification: As established by the SDE, there are three criteria used to determine a student's eligibility for Extended School Year services. Each of the criteria below is fully explained in Bulletin 1530. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Regression-Recoupment 2. Critical Point of Instruction 3. Employment 4. Transition to Part B 5. Transition to Post-School Outcomes 6. Excessive Absences 7. Extenuating Circumstances During the screening process, the instructional team will review data collected all year on IEP goals (and objectives, if written) to determine if the student is eligible for ESYS. Parents must be notified, in writing, of the ESYS decision. Delivery: ESYS services are delivered within the context of a three-week program during the summer at one the six ACSA schools. Instruction is delivered on those goals and objectives that were identified by the student's special education teacher on the IEP itself. Materials are made available to certified teachers and paraprofessionals to address said goals and objectives. Progress Monitoring takes place during this time to ensure adequate progress is being made and to adjust implementation of instruction where it is deemed necessary. The student's performance is summarized.
Description of specialized program(s):	Criteria for participation: : Jump Start - Students met the LAA 1 criteria and expressed interest in the hospitality industry. In addition, inclusive services are rendered according to each student's IEP. A student with more severe disabilities, for example, may receive some time in the Choral Music class to experience and participate in the music via giving a signal to start a song with the support of a paraprofessional. Furthermore, students also participate in art classes to enhance their fine and gross motor skills. Delivery: External provider to implement hands-on instruction and experiences relevant to earning a certificate in the hospitality pathway.

Community-based Supports (out-of-school)
Key Partnerships	Partner and services provided: Partner and services provided: Workforce Preparation & Placement Specialists, Inc., DBA Hospitality and Senior Care Institute of New Orleans. Provides approved training programs, qualified instructors, and approved curriculums for our Community-Based Instruction students in the Hospitality Industry. In addition, Delgado Community College, Logo Express, and Share-the-Harvest are community partners.
Other out-of-school instruction and supports (e.g. special school, therapeutic placement, hospital or homebound setting, juvenile detention facility, etc.)	Methods of instruction and service delivery: Louisiana SPCA: on-site training in care and socialization of adoptable animals by volunteer staff for selected Community-Based students. In addition, homebound services are provided for students who have documented medical challenges as certified by a medical doctor. The services are provided by a highly qualified teacher. For students who are placed in a juvenile facility, an IEP is re-convened with the IEP team at the facility itself. Services are rendered by a certified teacher at the facility according to the timeframes listed in the Program Services section of the student's IEP. For students placed in a therapeutic setting, the IEP is reconvened in conjunction with therapeutic setting staff to determine which service providers from the LEA will be necessary to implement IEP services within the context of the therapeutic setting. Providing services at a special school and/or hospital have not been applicable at this time; consequently, if the need arrives, we will contract services with appropriate personnel and provide adequate services in a timely manner.
